However, it is challenging to increase HMB levels through diet alone because the body converts less than five percent of leucine to HMB. Even with a protein-rich diet, adults may still fall short of optimal HMB levels.

Consequently, athletes and bodybuilders often supplement with HMB to enhance muscle building, repair, and recovery from exercise.

Glutamine is an anti-catabolic agent, meaning that when taken after a workout it can help to repair muscle damage and promotes new muscle tissue growth.

It has also shown a positive effect on the immune system. When you're training intensely, your immune system may be weakened due to the stress on your muscles. It can help to boost your immune system and prevent you from getting sick

PUMP – ENERGY & FOCUS

PUMP-ENERGY & FOCUS is a dietary supplement that is taken throughout the day to promote blood vessel-dilating and muscle-volumizing effects, thereby supporting blood flow and enhanced muscular performance. The key to the ARGO Fitness Pump formula is the inclusion of the amino acid L-arginine, a precursor to nitric oxide. High levels of nitric oxide dilate the blood vessels, potentially enhancing muscular performance and appearance.
